LAST WEEK

Obviously the Downtown KIWANIS Boys-Girls Work Committee has been doing a lot of spade work that wasn't mentioned during last week's excellent Industrial Arts Award Program. The nine young people who described their projects stole the show from Ron Moore. But apparently he had it planned that way! I was impressed with the displays---and the personable young people who individually stood up and described their projects.

The Teacher/Advisors are listed under VISITORS. The students/projects are as follows:

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| Sam Heefner, Franklin Junior High ... | Metal Trellis |
| David Johnson, Harding Junior High .. | Manufacture of Darts & Target |
| Wendy Ecker, McKinley Junior High ... | Rubber Stamp Making |
| Steve Barker, Roosevelt Junior High . | Drafting, Exploded View |
| Al Steinbach, Wilson Junior High | House Construction |
| Scott Rank, Jefferson Senior High .. | Model of Stage 4 Theatre |
| Rod Stoecker, Jefferson Senior High . | Model of Astrodome |
| Steve Hocken, Kennedy Senior High ... | Electronic Color Organ |
| Kim Anne Walther, Washington High ... | House Design, Drawings |

KIWANIS Industrial Arts Award Certificates were presented to the nine students listed above plus forty-six additional students who showed outstanding accomplishments in classes in their respective schools.

No excuse for editorializing after a fine program such as this. However, President Luhrs' story emphasizes a point which appears to have been neglected by many parents and counselors. ----- A lawyer called a plumber to fix his kitchen sink. Upon completion of the job, the plumber presented his bill for $75.00. The lawyer objected, saying that as an attorney he only charges $50.00 per hour. The plumber replied---"Yes, and that's what I used to charge when I was a practicing attorney!" Like Dr. Ellis, Head of the Iowa State University Technical Institute, once said---"We seem to have developed a complex. You should send your children to a vocational school---but I am going to send mine to college!" Training for a profession isn't for everyone. Do you suppose that the Kirkwood College approach---with both types of programs---may help solve the college vs. vocational school problem?

Husted, Industrial Arts Teacher, McKinley Junior High School; David Matthews, Industrial Arts Teacher, Jefferson Senior High School; Howard McKnight, Industrial Arts Teacher, Wilson Junior High School; Bill Strilich, Industrial Arts Teacher, Harding Junior High School.

bags of peanuts last Wednesday. Don't know what "During 1971 we are emphasizing the needs of youth in the disbursement of these funds." means, but if they are doing something for the "youth" of the community, I'm for it!
