LAST WEEK

"Sharing and Building Lives of Youth on the Past or Present?", that was the theme of this year's Downtown KIWANIS Essay Contest. Six personable young people from local high schools had lunch with us last Wednesday noon. And what's with this emphasis on woman's lib? Five of the six winners this year were women. But then, remember the previous week? All of our industrial arts contest winners were young men! So----what does that prove?

M.C. Howard Vander Schaaf described the process whereby the six winners had been selected and gave credit to the Downtown KIWANIANs who had given of their time and energy to help promote the contest and select the finalists. Each of the winners: Sherry Fuller from Jefferson High School; Sue Fowler from Kennedy; Connie Larson from Linn Mar; Sherry Novak from Prairie; Janey Schultz from Regis; and Joe Erseg from Washington, read his essay. Each received a trophy and a $25 Savings Bond. The Grand Prize winner was selected by journalists from local radio stations. Their decision was given to Howard in a sealed envelope which when opened revealed that Janey Schultz' essay had been selected as the best. Miss Schultz' reward was an impressive trophy and a $50 Bond; the trophy is to be displayed at her high school. Obviously, each of the winners had given the "Sharing and Building of Lives....." a lot of thought. I'm convinced today's young people have "their heads screwed on straight," as we used to say when I was a kid! There was a lot of depth and substance in the essays those young people read to us last Wednesday.
